

"KILL OR BE KILLED" IS POSEY'S DEFENSE

Slayer of Brother-in-Law
Will Enter Plea of Self-Defense.

WIFE STANDS BY HIM IN HER TESTIMONY

Little Feeling Displayed Against the Prisoners by Their Neighbors Since Tragedy.

Thomas Posey, the man who killed his brother-in-law, Edward Fair, after that relative had in turn killed his own brother, Allen Fair, will base his defense to the grand jury, which meets at Manassas on Monday, and before the Prince William county court, if the case goes beyond the grand jury, on the fact that it was a case of "kill or be killed" and will say that he wielded the ax which caused Fair's death, only when he found that he could not conquer that madman in any other way.

Both Posey and his wife when they faced the corner's jury Friday testified to the hard struggle which Posey had upon his hands when he, according to his statement, tried to subdue Edward Fair. Posey said that it was a case of "kill or be killed," and that he chose, of course, the latter.

His wife, who, according to the testimony of the several witnesses, and in part in agreement with her own sworn statement, handed Thomas Posey the ax, with which he killed Fair, did it with the wish that her husband kill the man with whom he was then struggling.

Wanted Him Killed.

"Did you get that ax for the purpose of your husband killing Ed?" runs the copy of the proceedings before the coroner's jury, the question being addressed to Mrs. Minnie Posey.

"I certainly did," was her reply.

"Did you," it continues, "want your husband to kill Ed?"

"I certainly did."

While there is much horror expressed in Manassas over the crime, and while persons in that village spoke with a sort of awe of the tragic fate which seems to hang over the Fair family, there were no threats of violence.

One of the best indications of the lack of feeling against Posey and his wife is the fact that neither has been arrested nor has there been apparently any thought among the authorities that there is any necessity for such arrests. Among the Virginia country folk there is no fear that either one of these two persons who have each acknowledged a part in this killing, will attempt to get away. Posey, they believe, relies on his claim of self-defense and adheres also to his belief that if a man kills another he should stay and face the consequences. His wife of course will stay with him.

Believed Insane.

Many believe that Edward Fair was temporarily insane. For years, apparently, he and his wife, who was a daughter of Charles Keys, well-known farmer of Prince William county, had lived happily together. There were two children from the marriage, and although the couple had a hard time working in the cotton mills of the North, in Baltimore, in New Jersey, and other places, they had, so far as their friends know, no matrimonial trouble until they got out of work in the North early in the summer and came back to the old Virginia country to live.

Here, it is supposed, the woman met Allen Fair, the brother of her husband, and he became jealous. Over this jealousy he is thought to have brooded for many weeks, but it did not culminate until a few days ago, when he first declared openly that he would kill his wife. His brother's wife, it is said, at this time he did not want to take. It was only against the woman that his wrath was directed.

Came Back Armed.

Perhaps the madness grew upon him. At any rate, he left the house where his wife, deserting him, had fled, and when he returned in the evening, when the darkness was just coming down over the quiet green hills of Virginia, he brought his gun and in one of the pockets were eight shotgun shells. One other was in the gun.

Now, too, it appears that he did not shoot his brother Allen until he and Thomas Posey, who afterward killed him, were engaged in their death struggle. According to Posey's own testimony, he called for help when he felt that Ed was beating him. Allen, he testified, came to his aid—and when the gun was unloaded, say the members of the coroner's jury—and it was then that Ed shot, killing Allen almost instantly.

The three guns, two big bore shotguns and an old musket which saw service in the civil war, repose now in the little red brick court house in Manassas. The ax which beat out the life of Edward Fair stands beside them and the old musket broken in the hands, though it is evidently was, bear witness to the strength of a woman's enraged hand, for the stock is broken square off where Mrs. Posey broke it over the victim's head.

Air of Mystery.

About the whole tragedy there hangs that air of mystery that ever surrounds the feud of the South. One seems to go back twenty years, when one walks into the court house, looks over the papers in the case and listens to the Virginia talk of the other bloody incidents in the history of the Fair family.

All the persons mixed in the struggle of death bear good reputations about Manassas. None of them is known to be a drinker and all are held to have been steady men. Only the record of the family in regard to women remains, and of that the Virginians do not speak much, although the incidents surrounding the deaths of the other members are well known everywhere about the countryside.

Through it all, the woman who seems to have been the cause of it all, the wife of Edward Posey, stood at a safe background. She ran when the first fight came and stayed away, according to the testimony, until it was over. Then when she did come back, Minnie Posey said in her deposition, "She told Thomas Posey to go back and kill him (Edward Fair, her husband) or he will kill us all."

The two dead men were buried quietly on the land of their father, near where they both met death yesterday afternoon.

Meyer Selects New Designs For Stamp Soon to Be Issued

Will Be Finest Ever Printed, Declares Director Ralph,
Who Submitted the Proofs—Will Be Circulating Within Thirty Days.

Postage stamps in new designs are to be issued within a month to replace those now in use. Postmaster General Meyer today saw and approved the proofs of the engraver's plates of the new 2-cent and 1-cent stamps. Director Ralph, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who submitted the proofs, claims that the stamps will be the finest ever issued by the Government.

The colors of the stamps will not be different from those now in use, nor will the historical characters now common on the stamps be removed. The only change is in the position of the figures. At present the full face of the national heroes is seen on the entire set of stamps, but the new set will present a clear-cut profile view.

The idea of the new stamps was conceived by the Postmaster General himself. It is probable that the first stamps of the new design will be sent to the larger offices in thirty days. Printing from the old plates already has been suspended, and it will not take long for the supply of $50,000,000 now on hand in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to be exhausted. The Postoffice Department disposes of 2-cent stamps at the rate of 30,000,000 a day, and about one-half as many 1-cent stamps are sold each day.

BUYS MANY DRINKS; FORGETS TO SETTLE

Liberal Stranger Walks Out
After "Spending" Freely.
Is Arrested.

A well-dressed man, whose appearance would indicate that he was well supplied with the coin of the realm, and who gave the impression of being in the habit of enjoying the best there is in life, walked nonchalantly into the cafe of Philip J. Roche, 135 E. street northwest, last night. In the rear of the establishment are two bowling alleys, and after chatting pleasantly with several patrons about the championship baseball game, he took off his coat, and announced that he would do a few stunts with the pins.

The man did not hesitate about ordering drinks freely, and everybody in the place was asked to take what he wanted. After the stranger had run up a bigger score on the bar check than he did on the tally card of the alleys, one of the attendants hinted that it was time to come across with a little of the long green.

Inviting everybody to have another drink, the man said that he would pay the bill after he had served. Instead of waiting to settle his account, however, he put on his coat and walked out of the door, while the attendants stared after him open-mouthed.

Mr. Roche reported the case to the police, and a half hour later Detective Cornwell arrested the man, who said he was Benjamin L. Smith, forty-two years of age, of 81 Light street, Lynn, Mass. When he was searched, papers were found in his pockets that indicated he had recently been in Richmond, Va. Telegrams were immediately sent to the police of both cities, and later in the evening Chief of Detectives Tomlinson, of Richmond, wired to hold Smith. The message said that the prisoner might be wanted to answer a charge of forgery in the Virginia city, and that further details would be sent by mail.

NEGROES FLEEING; MOB IN A RAGE

Three Lynched and Campaign of Extermination Begun.

HICKORY, Miss., Oct. 10.—Terror stricken, and making every effort to leave the county, negro residents in this community are shaking with fear lest some of their number are made the innocent victims of a mob which tonight is searching for Shy Jones, a negro who shot and killed Albert J. Wall, a planter, and for which crime three innocent negroes were lynched last night.

Soon after the shooting, Jones escaped. A posse went to the home of his father-in-law, William F. Frazier, took him out and hanged him to a tree. Frank Johnson, a friend of Jones, and D. E. Watkins, at whose home the fugitive spent a few hours, were shot to death.

Then the mob began a campaign of extermination. Already a negro church and lodge hall have been destroyed, and the posse threatens to lynch other negroes unless Jones is apprehended.

WALKS 600 MILES TO GIVE SELF UP

Man Whose Sentence Is Affirmed
by Higher Court Returns to Sheriff.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Oct. 10.—Convicted of manslaughter in the district court at a recent term, Edgar Barton appealed to the court of criminal appeals and was released from custody. He left the county and settled on the border of New Mexico, where he was prospering, when information reached him that his conviction had been affirmed by higher courts.

Barton did not wait for the sheriff, he summons, but walked 600 miles to this city entirely unattended. Arriving here he reported to the sheriff that he had come to accept sentence and was ready to begin serving his term of five years in the penitentiary.

He is at last awaiting the penitentiary agent. Barton is in bad health, and his life has awakened much sympathy.

AT 100 STILL USES TOBACCO AND DRINK

DANVILLE, Pa., Oct. 10.—Michael Powers has just celebrated the 100th anniversary of his birth, and his faculties are vigorous for a centenarian, his sight and hearing are good and he eats and sleeps well.

Powers is a bachelor. He said today: "I chew tobacco and have drank sparingly of whisky since I was a boy in my teens."

PUT REFRIGERATORS IN NAVY MAGAZINES

Department Issues Orders to Equip Iowa With New System.

Ice as a preventive of explosions on warships is to be utilized by the United States navy.

The Navy Department has just issued orders to equip the battleship Iowa with a refrigerator system in connection with its magazines, in order to prevent the overheating of ammunition, to which a number of serious explosions in the American and other navies has been ascribed.

The ice is to be packed in chambers surrounding the magazines. Later on the system will be extended to other vessels of the navy. It is already in use in the British navy, the battleship Dreadnought being the first to be equipped in this manner.

NEGRO THIEF HIDES IN WOMAN'S ROOM

Would-be Robber Knocks Mrs.
Latham Down When She Enters Apartment.

A negro secreted in the bedroom of Mrs. J. W. Latham, 109½ E. street northeast, knocked her down as she entered the room at 8 o'clock last night. The lamp she carried was broken, and in the darkness the negro escaped through a rear door. He was seen to leap the back fence and run down an alley.

Mrs. Latham, although badly frightened, was little hurt, and reported the matter to Precinct station No. 9. Nothing was missed from the house.

PEONAGE VERDICT GRATIFIES RUSSELL

Assistant Attorney General
Discusses Prosecution of Goldberger.

Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Russell and other officials of the Department of Justice, are much gratified at a conviction just obtained by officers of the department in an important peonage case, at Abington, in the southwestern section of Virginia.

The case was the United States vs. Goldberger and Bunting. Goldberger was indicted for forcing by threats of shooting and other illegal means, forty Italians and other foreigners to work in the employ of Rockley & Carpenter, railroad contractors, who were working on a line just across the border of the State in Tennessee.

Bunting is a justice of the peace in Abington, who was alleged to have used his official position to aid in coercing the foreign laborers. Bunting was acquitted, but Goldberger was found guilty, and will be sentenced within the next few days.

This case was one of many now pending in the United States courts in North Carolina, West Virginia, and other States, where indictments have been found as a result of the determination of the Department of Justice to put an end to this form of involuntary servitude.

"We intend to break up this practice," said Assistant Attorney General Russell, "and will keep right after these violators of the law until we succeed. The Abington case is the first conviction we have obtained in Virginia. There are several cases pending in West Virginia, North Carolina, and other States, and the officers of the department are keeping a sharp lookout for other opportunities to punish these violations of the law."

"Peonage is really worse than slavery, because under the old system cruelty and intimidation were resorted to only occasionally, and were condemned by public sentiment; but they are the very life blood of peonage and must be practiced continuously, in order to hold those whose services usually have been obtained by fraud. In many cases, the petty courts aid in this system and the department intends to prosecute these offenders relentlessly."

"I am especially gratified at this conviction in Abington, because I have often been criticised in the Southern States for not obtaining convictions in my own State."

BCDY ON COWCATCHER.

LYONS, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Willis L. Norton, a farmer, was struck and killed by a train near this city. The engineer knew nothing of the fatality until he discovered Norton's body on the cowcatcher of the locomotive.

BIG ENROLLMENT.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 10.—The records of the department of the University of Michigan have registered to date 4,411 students, or 233 more than were enrolled at this corresponding time last year. Every department shows an increase.

CLUSE IS BROUGHT TO HOUSEWARMING

Fortnight of Festivities at Masonic Temple Are Ended With Good Bill.

GOOD SUM RAISED TO PAY DEFICIT

Much Praise Is Given All Who Took Part in Exercises, Especially the Women.

The housewarming of the new Masonic Temple came to a close last night, after two weeks of entertainment and hard work on the part of those having the affair in charge, with the net result of having raised a substantial sum for the purpose of lifting the debt on the structure besides making many friends for the fraternity in the District.

The desire to own a home of its own has been uppermost in the desires and ambitions of the fraternity membership in the District for many years. With this end in view the Masonic Temple Association, composed of representatives from the various lodges, was formed to take up the project.

Funds were raised by giving several fairs and by selling stock in the proposed new temple to the members of the fraternity. When it was thought that sufficient money had been obtained, the site at Thirteenth and H streets and New York avenue was purchased and a contract for the building let. Owing to unanticipated conditions, structural changes in the plans were necessary, which entailed an additional cost of about $20,000.

Have Deficit to Meet.

In order to meet the deficit it was considered advisable to provide a form of entertainment for the formal opening of the building and, at the same time, endeavor by this means to raise the needed money in order that the building might be free of debt.

Dr. Frank E. Gibson, chairman of the entertainment committee, with his fellow-workers, obtained an array of talent, both amateur and professional, that drew capacity audiences for three separate performances night after night, and which proved to be not only the most entertaining feature of the housewarming, but the most profitable.

Other features were the military luncheon supplied by the women of the Order of the Eastern Star, representing the Ruth, Esther, Electa, Naomi, Bethlehem, Takoma, Brookland, and Mizpah chapters; the refreshments at night supplied by the members of Arema Chapter, and the dancing in the main auditorium.

A splendid orchestra under the direction of Sol Minster furnished the music for the dancing. Percy S. Foster serving as chairman of the committee on music.

Chef Is Chairman.

Chef Theodore Picard was chairman of the committee on refreshments, and filled the position to the evident satisfaction of the many hundreds who gathered around the tables in the refreshment parlors eager for a helping of the choice things supplied.

The donation committee, headed by Mrs. Minnie A. Gibson as chairman; Mrs. Nora Henry as vice chairman, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, as secretary and treasurer, formed an important part of the organization, and won much praise for the success of their part of the affair.

Chairman Louis C. Wilson of the general committee was one of the most indefatigable workers for the success of the housewarming, and did much by his presence and cheering words to spur his co-workers on the greater activities.

Mr. Wilson last night pronounced the housewarming a great success, socially and financially.

"Too much praise cannot be given to those who have given their time and attention to the work," said Mr. Wilson, "and our success is due in the main to the splendid work of the officers and co-workers on the greater activities."

No Paddle Wheels.

The housewarming was notable for the absence of some features that generally go with such entertainments in Washington. There was no paddle wheel or other games of chance, or "voting," the management having decided to advance the cause of the "clean show" and give the people their money's worth.

Mr. Wilson said last night that the increased attendance each night and the success of the housewarming generally was thought to be due to the keynote of the management.

View longer and better bills in both auditoriums, and an attendance that filled every available space in the building, the festivities ended last night shortly before midnight.

A special attraction in the main auditorium was an exhibition drill by the famous Arab Patrol of Almas Temple under the direction of Dr. Frank E. Gibson. It was found impossible to put on the general entertainment, and a picked squad of twenty members gave the performance, including Captain Gibson, First Lieut. Dr. Charles A. Stewart, Second Lieut. Joseph A. Dyer, E. F. Dierdorf, W. C. Smallwood, W. W. Georges, A. Crawford Cook, S. G. Bernard, J. E. Brown, J. E. Leaman, J. S. Hamby, R. M. Harper, John Bonini, J. E. Nelson, C. C. Gray, Samuel Beckman, M. A. Hess, H. W. Abel, and G. E. Eberhart.

Cakewalkers Displaced.

Owing to the fact that the Atlantic City Cakewalkers were displaced on the program last night by the Almas Temple Patrol, the management found that it had a surplus cake on hand, which was voted to William H. Landvoigt, chairman of the press committee, as a mark of esteem for his faithful work and his success in bringing the various housewarming features to the attention of the public through the medium of the Washington press. Mr. Landvoigt was called to the stage of the main auditorium and presented with the cake, after which he responded in more or less appropriate words, somewhat embarrassed by the unexpected honor.

Another pretty feature was the barn dance led by Miss Eola Rice and Prof. Howard Lesley Holt, and Prof. L. A. Acker and wife, Miss Cora Shreve's singing and dancing classes supplied most of an unusually attractive vaudeville bill in the fifth floor auditorium.

GENERAL F. D. GRANT REPORTS FOR YEAR

Department of the East Has Nearly 13,000 on Its Fifty Posts.

GOOD RESULTS IN COOKING SCHOOLS

Increased Interest in Target Practice—Desertion Still Frequent Offense.

Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, commander of the Department of the East, in his annual report to the adjutant general for the last fiscal year, shows that the aggregated strength of the troops in his department is 512 commissioned officers and 12,233 enlisted men, distributed about fifty garrison posts and at Pine Camp.

In the inspection of militia, General Grant detailed officers of the regular army to inspect the particular branches of the militia with which they were connected in the regular army. These inspections were made with great care and thoroughness, and the reports state that a general improvement in the militia over former years was noted.

During the year there were 867 trials of enlisted men and five officers. There were 815 convictions, of acquittals, and 12 trials of military convicts. A resume of the offenses of the enlisted men shows that desertion was the most frequent offense, there being 306 cases; absence without leave, 191; drunkenness on duty, 33; drunk and disorderly, 23; and fraudulent enlistment, 33.

Army Trains Cooks.

Satisfactory results from the establishment of cooking and baking schools are reported. The schools have turned out a number of qualified men, who are capable of preparing the army ration properly, and of giving the maximum amount of nourishment and satisfaction. Good health, contentment, and greater efficiency among the soldiers has consequently resulted.

A remarkable decrease in the number of admissions to the hospitals for malarial fever is reported, there having been but 339 as compared with the 639 of the year previous. This decrease was due chiefly to the vigorous campaign that had been carried on at various posts against mosquitoes.

The extra pay for superior marksmanship has caused enlisted men to take a great interest in target practice and the report holds that officers and enlisted men should have practice together, as the target practice is the most important of all military instruction. The report recommends the purchase of land in the vicinity of Washington, New York, and Boston for the creation of new ranges, as the troops stationed at these places now have no such points of practice.

General Grant concurs in the recommendation of Major Mallory that the skirmish fire of thirty shots be substituted for the forty-shot method now used. He also strongly urges the introduction of firing at moving targets, single figures, and groups.

Cannot Decrease Pack.

General Grant says that he does not see how any decrease in the number of articles to be carried in a pack by an infantryman can be made. He considers the present clothing generally satisfactory, but thinks the khaki uniform is not satisfactory for field service and ought to be limited to garrison use in warm climates. The picket pin is obsolete, the general says, and ought to be abandoned.

Among the recommendations the report urges that a limited amount of indoor exercise be given to coast artillery troops during the indoor period, and that Congress authorize the transportation of the wives and children of officers and non-commissioned officers who are traveling with troops. Each post should be supplied with a few standard law books to use in courts-martial.

JEWELRY DISPLAY VERY ATTRACTIVE

New Designs Direct From Paris
Draw Attention at Lucios Store.

Washington women, who are fond of jewelry, of new and artistic design, are being attracted by the new display of the famous High Art Jewelry Shops at 1397 F street northwest.

The Washington shop is one of thirty-eight branches, to all of which, the newest designs of the European masters are distributed. The new designs are all manufactured in Paris and shipped to this country by express, and are selected by the European masters. Daniel Levy, proprietor of the local store, spent the entire month of August arranging for the new fall line that is now on display.

For the first time in this city changes in fashion as does Milady's gown and other wearing apparel, and new fashions in jewelry have become popular. Each new gown must have with it appropriate jewelry of the newest design. The entire Lucios store is occupied by the new exhibit.
